

Kindergarten News

October 3, 2009

We had a great week of prayer. Next week in Bible we will be learning about joy and peace as fruits of The Spirit.

The children are great at sorting. Now we'll learn to put things back together in patterns.

Our apple sauce tasted yummy. Thanks Janelle and Rodelyn for helping. Metro gave a wonderful puppet show on composting. We'll be learning about the seasons of an apple tree and how worms help plants to grow. The letter of the week is W. If you have a few good worms to bring in, I have a neat viewer to keep them in.

The bookcases are due back at school on Wednesday. Some have already returned them with a project. The children will present their book and show their little project about their book on Wednesday afternoon. Have fun reading and making together.

Volunteers make a BIG difference here at Rivergate. We especially need your help at the Fall Festival next Sunday. Please sign up and volunteer your time at this fun family event.

In the red folder are permission slips for the October's field trips. Please fill out the bottom half completely and return it in the red folder.

If you plan on driving I also need a copy of an insurance paper from the office that is filled out completely for our records. Some are in already.

Scholastic orders are due back on October 19.

Question: Where can I find out more information about kindergarten?

I updated my web pages last week. You can go to rgsda.org and click on teachers. When you click on my name you will find information about everything from the class schedule to the field trip permission slip that you can print off and the class calendar through November. I also blog about our class learning adventures. You can see some pictures too. I try to update these pages every Friday. So keep checking in for the current newsletter and other information.
